

- 1 Bronze wall tablet with a cable border interrupted in each corner by a square sunk panel containing an anchor. Above the inscription, applied at the centre onto the border, is the large brass badge of The Incorporated Thames Nautical Training College. The inscription is in raised roman caps with the names arranged in five columns separated by four fleur-de-lys headed fillets. The final line of the inscription is in sloped caps and l/c with a patée cross after the word “trod”. The flag of HMS Worcester is mounted alongside the plaque (see 054A below).

- 7 The Thames Nautical Training College (initially called The Thames Marine Officers Training School) was established in 1862 to meet the perceived need for properly trained officers on merchant ships. It was sited on the HMS Worcester, berthed at Greenhithe. The ship was replaced twice, once in 1876 and again in 1945, each replacement being re-named HMS Worcester. In 1968 the college became part of the Merchant Navy College at Greenhithe and the third HMS Worcester was sold to be broken up in 1978. (ref a)

054A Flag

The gold-fringed flag is a Blue Ensign defaced in the fly by a letter W surmounted by a naval crown all in yellow (ref: internet research). It is hung on a wooden pole with disc finial and a hollow white metal sleeve. The pole is screwed to two wooden blocks attached to the wall, the disc finial resting on the top of the inscription tablet.
